

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A grill apparatus includes a base having a cooking plate, an exhaust fan mounted in the base for sucking exhaust air generated by the cooking plate, and a water-cooled muffler device mounted in the base and including a 5 housing through which the exhaust air passes. The water-cooled muffler device creates water curtains for filtering, cooling, and muffling the exhaust air. The exhaust air after handling can be directly discharged indoors.